Ladies and Gentlemen: you have witnessed the installation of your newly elected Board of Directors and Officers. These persons that you have delegated to lead the Region have every right to expect cooperation and whole-hearted support from you collectively as well as individually. However, you must remember that your obligations do not end with their election. You as members of the NER must be accountable too, and when called upon to serve, it is up to you to accept an assignment and give your best effort in the task to which you are assigned. The future success of the NER will depend upon the support we give to these persons that have just now been installed.
